

injecting the melted material from the second chamber into the mold; and forming in the mold the molded metal part, the molded metal part having a thickness less than 1 mm and wherein the as-molded surface is sufficiently smooth so that the surface is suitable for painting directly without further processing.

6 1
